

The Distiller is a bi-weekly podcast about “How we find meaningful work, and how we find meaning in the work we do.”

On each episode of The Distiller, host Brandon Dawson talks with guests about the work they do, including how and why they came to that work, and what it means to them and to the world.

Sometimes the discussions are about craft, and mastery; sometimes they're about meaning, and philosophy. But every episode gets at the heart of what “work” means today, and how it relates to our search for meaning, purpose, and a sense of fulfillment in our lives.

About The Host - Brandon Dawson

After taking his first job in radio at the age of 16, Brandon worked as an on-air DJ at just about every format (and almost every station) in his hometown of Boise, Idaho until leaving radio fifteen years later. Since those early days Brandon has gone around the world as a tour manager for several bands, he's been a teacher, a builder of houses, a welder of locomotives, a freelance journalist, the CEO of a natural beverage startup, and the president of an advertising agency. What you might call "a lack of focus" Brandon calls "curiosity." But whatever you call it, it all comes into play as the creator and host of The Distiller, where Brandon brings a deep curiosity about, and a profound respect for, all the different ways we think of "work."

Want to book The Distiller? Interview the team? Suggest a guest or a location?

Every episode of The Distiller is recorded in a different location, usually a bar, restaurant, or coffee shop. You can find a searchable map of everywhere we've recorded the show on our website at: TheDistillerPodcast.com/distiller-podcast-locations/.

We're always on the hunt for new guests and locations. If you have a suggestion for somewhere we should record The Distiller, whether somewhere you own or work or just a place you like to hang out, please get in touch. And if you know of someone we should feature on The Distiller, drop us a line and let us know. While we're usually in and around Cincinnati, we also like to travel. Give us a reason to come to you!
